 Nora Anyidoho - 2024/WTF/DS/0119

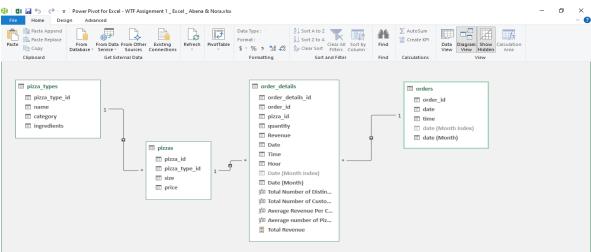

1.0 Introduction

This report presents a comprehensive analysis of the sales data for Marvens Pizza Place for the year 2015. Utilizing datasets, gotten from Maven Analytics (Free Data Sets & Dataset Samples, 2022), encompassing orders, order details, pizzas and pizza types, the analysis aims to uncover customer preference, revenue generation, product performance, best sellers, and suggestions for menu optimization.

2.0 Methodology

The analysis was conducted using Microsoft Excel by Nora Anyidoho and Abena Agyemang Gyasi for data manipulation and visualization. Key techniques included:

- Importing and merging datasets.
- Drawing relationships between Different Data Sets (workbooks) using Power Pivot
- Creating Pivot Tables for detailed examination of sales patterns.
- Employing charts for visual representation of trends and insights.

3.0 Key Findings

3.1. Customer Count and Peak Hours

- Total Number of Distinct Orders: 48,620.
- Total Number of Customers: 21,350.
- Peak Hours: 12 PM (6,543 orders), 1 PM (6,203 orders), 6 PM (5,359 orders), and 5 PM (5,143 orders).
- Off-Peak Hours: Lowest orders at 9 AM (4 orders), 10 AM (17 orders), and 11 PM (68 orders). Business operating hours are from 9:00 am to 11:00pm

3.2. Order Composition and Bestsellers

Average Number of Pizzas per Order: Two (2).

The bestsellers dominated by The Thai Chicken Pizza, The Barbecue Chicken Pizza, and The California Chicken Pizza, indicate a strong customer preference for these specific flavors as shown in Table 1.

Table 1. Top 10 Bestsellers

Pizza Type	Sum of Revenue
The Sicilian Pizza	30,940.50
The Four Cheese Pizza	32,265.70

The Barbecue Chicken Pizza	42,768.00
The Thai Chicken Pizza	43,434.25
Grand Total	364,285.45

3.3. Pizza Categories

The pizzas were grouped into four categories: Veggie, Chicken, Supreme, and Classic. Here is how they performed.

Interestingly, while Chicken pizzas had the least number of orders (10,815), Veggie pizzas generated the least revenue ($193,690). Chicken pizzas generated more revenue than Veggie pizzas, indicating higher profitability per unit.

4.0 Recommendations

4.1. Menu Optimization

Based on the percentage of order quantity and revenue, the following pizzas underperformed and could be considered for removal from the menu:

- The Brie Carre Pizza: This is the third most expensive pizza, but had the least revenue (1.4%) and least quantity ordered (0.9%).
- The Green Garden Pizza: Had the second least quantity percentages of 1.93% and revenue of 1.87%.
- The Mediterranean Pizza: Had the third least quantity percentages of 1.90% and revenue of 1.88%.

4.2. Promotion Suggestions

- Promotions could be leveraged by Marvens to boost sales of other pizzas, particularly those in the Chicken category, which had fewer orders but generated more revenue than Veggie pizzas. This suggests that customers may be willing to pay more for Chicken pizzas, and promoting these could increase sales and revenue.
- Focus on promoting best-sellers and high-margin items, particularly The Thai Chicken Pizza, The Barbecue Chicken Pizza, and The California Chicken Pizza, to maximize revenue.
- Implement seasonal promotions aligned with observed sales trends. Consider introducing combo deals or promotions during low-sales months like August to boost sales.

The table below details the Quantity sold and revenue generated for each pizza. It also details the respective percentages (as compared to revenue and quantity sold, respectively).

5.0 Conclusion

The 2015 sales analysis has provided valuable insights into the sales dynamics at Marvens Pizza Place. The data reveals a healthy diversity in pizza preferences among customers, with a notable skew towards Chicken and Supreme categories. The data displays a significant demand for pizzas like The Thai Chicken Pizza, The Barbecue Chicken Pizza, and The California Chicken Pizza, indicating their high revenue generation potential.

The analysis also identifies specific peak hours for customer orders, underscoring opportunities for targeted marketing and operational efficiency during these times. Given these insights, it is advisable to concentrate marketing efforts on high-revenue-generating pizzas and categories, especially within the Chicken category.

Additionally, phasing out less popular menu items and leveraging seasonal sales trends can be effective strategies. The proposed menu optimizations and targeted promotions are poised to streamline Marvens Pizza Place's offerings and enhance overall profitability.
